Version Updated 10/06/17

The Joshua Nolan Foundation is a registered SCIO, number SC045351.

Thank you for taking the time to raise awareness and support vulnerable people through the Joshua Nolan Foundation.

The Joshua Nolan Foundation has been working hard since it started in 2014 to raise awareness on mental health, and to try and reduce the stigma that often seems to stop people reaching out and asking for help. Everyone who supports the JNF helps us to provide financial help to those who have suffered trauma and been at risk of suicide to access specialist one to one counselling.

After successfully piloting a workshop in an Edinburgh school, we hope, with your support and fundraising, to run more workshops in schools across Edinburgh. Your help means young people can get the opportunity to understand and manage their feelings better, and support those who are dealing with trauma that may lead to suicide.

We cannot thank you enough for choosing to support the JNF in helping to fund vital services that those most vulnerable desperately need.

With your partnership, we can achieve even more

JNF strive to improve the lives of everybody struggling with their mental health through counselling, awareness and education. Partnership is at the heart of this and JNF would not exist without the skill, knowledge and financial support of organisations and individuals we partner with.

A partnership with JNF is a mutually beneficial relationship: for JNF this means access to innovation, expertise and funding, and for you and your team this means the chance to make significant social impact and to develop a powerful presence on mental health and wellbeing in Scotland.

Join us and share the JNF vision of reducing the number of suicides in Scotland while meeting your business objectives and making a real and lasting impact.

To find out more speak with a member of the JNF trustee board and they will guide you through our work to date trustees@joshuanolanfoundation.org
